The organ has long been important to the worship services of Levy Baptist Church. An organ was purchased early in the church's history. When a congregation expresses its faith through music, there is only one instrument equal to producing a sound as elemental, eternal, and exuberant as its celebration - the organ. The organ is preeminently God's instrument and meant to help devotion. Its mysterious voice, distinct from all other instruments, is perfect for spine-tingling moments during worship service playing. An anonymous donor added chimes to the organ and today, three chimes ring sweetly at the end of the service reminding the worshipers to depart in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.
